

Roles for contributors

There are some specific roles contributors can play to support the work of test teams and benefit from their learning along the way.

An expert

You bring a particularly valuable perspective to the work of teams, for example, through lived experience, your professional experience.

A champion

You act as ambassadors for the work, sharing findings to influence others, and signposting to connections who can provide feedback on ideas developed through the Lab

A critical friend

You provide feedback, challenge and support to test teams – asking constructive questions at the right time to help them to improve their ideas.